About myself...

My basic goals are self-improvement and creation. My friends know me as a helpful and creative person. I have been interested for a while in the culture of discussion on many topic. For example politics, religion, social or cultural phenomena. This helped me in my attitude to solve problems. Self-knowledge is important for me. Self-improvement is based on knowledge of our weaknesses and strengths. One of my strongest sides is opening to completely new things for me.

Professional ambitions

Because I am standing again at the starting line as a career starter, i want to try myself in as many jobs in the gamedeveloping as possible. Primary targeted for gaining experience. In addition, I would like to know which parts of game development I am most talented at and which part I like to work the most.
